elcome to the second issue of Elysium! As many of you know, the goal of this publication is to create a forum in which people from all (and any) disciplines can voice their ideas, opinions and criticisms.

The selection of material was based on these criteria, and not simply on the individual tastes of the editors - the process was long and grueling and led to many a heated debate. The editorial committee functions as a collective; each member's opinion has equal weight for all decisions made in regards to the magazine's content, appearance, and concept. It is our hope that your reading of this issue generates as much discussion as did ours. Enjoy!
